If you could design any type of house for yourself, what would it look like?

I like the old traditional Moroccan house. The traditional house in Morocco has a courtyard, a small waterfall, flower garden and beautiful craftsmanship. Usually, the house has at least two floors. In my courtyard I would have a baby blue water fountain and mixed white and green tiles on the floor of the house. I would like to have some woodwork on my furniture and lots of colorful cushions. My courtyard would have flowers and an orange or mandarin tree. The kitchen and office would be on the main floor. The bedrooms and guestroom would be on the second floor. My house flooring tiles all would be mixed colors, such as white, black, green, turquoise and light blue. I would decorate with traditional Moroccan art and Somalian art.

Sheuli's Power of Words Breakfast Speech September 8, 2023

Good morning to the honorable guests, teachers, and fellow students. I am very grateful to PWC, that they have given me the opportunity to introduce myself and share my story here today. My name is Sheuli Haque, and I have been a student here at PWC since 2013. People, Words & Change is a non-profit organization that has been providing opportunities for English-speaking adults, like me, in Ottawa to improve literacy, numeracy, or basic computer skills -- all of which are essential to working, learning, and living. When I first came to Canada in 2013, I had to immediately start working to support my family. During that time, the only job I could find was in the fast-food industry. At that point, I was not fluent in English and struggled a lot to communicate with and understand others. It was very difficult for me to work. I often felt unconfident, overwhelmed, and stressed out. After a few months, my husband, who had also done a few courses here at PWC, asked me to come here and start learning English.

I was hesitant to do so at first because I had to work during the days, and then go home to take care of my family in the evenings. I thought that I could not manage my time to come here and study. But my teacher, Maureen, has been incredibly helpful and understanding. She has been my teacher since I started to study here. It is because of volunteer tutors like her who are so willing to help adults improve their lives, that many people like me can improve their skills, which leads to us becoming more fluent in English, getting better jobs, and feeling confident about ourselves. About 10 years ago, I could not hold a proper conversation. I always felt very uncomfortable speaking in English. Now I am standing here giving a speech in front of a big audience. All with the help of PWC.

Literacy is a fundamental human right. It improves our lives by expanding our capabilities. Before coming to Canada, I was fluent in only my mother language, but now I am also fluent in English. I have seen significant improvements in my communication and writing skills over the years that I have been a student here.

I would like to thank PWC for all the help and support provided throughout my time here, and I would like to thank Dee Sullivan and Karen Hilderman for all your hard work and support. I would also like to thank the people who donated to PWC; it is because of their donations that PWC is able to help many adults like me turn their lives around for the better and feel more confident about themselves.

The work that PWC does is truly life-changing and I am fortunate enough to get to learn with PWC. Once again, thank you so much for giving me the opportunity and a platform to share my story. And thank you so much to PWC for helping, supporting, and believing in me for so many years. I couldn't have been where I am today without the help of PWC. I would like to thank you all for being here today and taking the time to patiently listen to what I had to say. I wish you all a blessed day.

How to Sponsor a Foreign Worker

In the past few years, many business owners have faced a shortage of staff and skilled/experienced workers to fill available positions in the workplace. When their recruitment efforts to hire permanent residents or Canadian workers are not successful, they have another option, which is to hire foreign workers who have experience in particular positions to come to work for them in Canada. The current public policy effective until February 2025 also gives another option for employers to hire a foreign national who is already in Canada and has a valid visitor status to work for them.

The first step involved in hiring a foreign worker is that employers have to check whether the position for which they are hiring requires a labour market impact assessment (LMIA) and a work permit. If they are not exempt from needing an LMIA, they have to apply for an LMIA online. The cost for an application is $1000/person. The employers can submit the LMIA application by themselves or hire a lawyer to do the paperwork, which will cost the employers several thousand dollars more.

The application process depends on what type of program the employers are applying for. Different programs for hiring a foreign worker include one for a high-wage position, one for a low-wage position, a Seasonal Agricultural Worker Program, or an Agricultural Stream. The employers have to make sure that they meet the program requirements before they submit the application. For example, they have to prove that they have tried to recruit permanent residents and Canadian citizens for the position by posting an advertisement on the Government of Canada's Job Bank and by advertising using two additional methods of recruitment.

If the employers have never submitted an LMIA application before, they also need to submit documents to prove their business's legitimacy and to confirm that their business is in a good financial position to hire a foreign worker. The processing time varies from 10 to 50 days depending on the type of program they are applying for.

If an employer has received a positive LMIA, they can give a copy of the confirmation letter to the prospective foreign worker(s) so they can apply for a work permit. According to the current public policy, if foreign workers are already in Canada, they can apply for a work permit without leaving the country. After foreign workers receive their work permits, they will be able to work legally in Canada under the conditions stated on the paper. However, an employer can go through all the steps for sponsoring a foreign worker, investing thousands of dollars and many hours on paperwork, and still have the LMIA rejected. In other cases, an employer can finally get a positive LMIA, but the prospective employee has their work permit turned down.

-Natt

(UPDATE: We have got the positive LMIA, but sadly the foreign worker got his work permit rejected. We have to look for a lawyer to see whether we will be able to reapply.)

A Robbery

During Covid-19 Ottawa had a lot of robberies. In mid December 2021, someone was trying to find out which hours I was working alone at my currency exchange store. On December 30th 2021, two men arrived with a shotgun and they pointed the gun in my direction. Fortunately, when the robbers came into the store, I was on a phone call with a customer and I asked the customer to call 911. The robbers were screaming and trying to break the door but they didn't have time to continue because they knew the police would come at any moment.

In conclusion, what I learned is not to work alone at night.

THE HAUNTED HOUSE

Bella felt restless at different times throughout her morning classes. Whenever she tried to concentrate on her school work, her mind wandered to the old run-down house down the street. She had walked passed the mansion many times on her way to and from her friends' houses, the corner store and school. Something was strange and different about the place this morning – she heard a gurgling sound emanating from deep inside the belly of what was once a majestic structure in her neighbourhood. She could see wisps of thin purple puffs of vapours leaking through the cracks in the windows and from the crooked chimney on the roof top. As Bella lingered outside, her eyes focused on thick white threads which covered the top of the double front door frame – large, plump spiders skittered everywhere. As Bella moved closer toward the house, she felt suddenly startled by the appearance of a black cat with matted fur and a rigidly arched back adeptly tiptoeing along the tines of the fence. The cat let out a forlorn moan as it flashed red eyes in Bella's direction. After a few minutes, the gurgling sound changed to high pitched blood curdling screams.

BELLA'S HAIR STOOD UP ON THE BACK OF HER NECK, HER FEET FROZE ON THE GROUND BENEATH HER AND HER BREATHING STOPPED. ONCE SHE RECOVERED FROM HER INITIAL SHOCK, SHE HURRIED TO SCHOOL SO SHE WOULD NOT BE LATE. HER MIND WAS SWIMMING WITH INTRIGUE AND SO MANY QUESTIONS.

1. WHAT WAS MAKING THE GURGLING SOUND SHE FIRST HEARD?
2. WERE WITCHES BREWING A MAGIC POTION?
3. WHAT WAS GIVING RISE TO THE PURPLISH WISPS COMING FROM THE WINDOWS AND CHIMNEY?
4. WHY WERE THE CAT'S EYES RED? AND
5. WHAT WAS UP WITH ITS ARCHED BACK?

BELLA DECIDED SHE WOULD FIND ANSWERS TO THESE QUESTIONS AFTER SCHOOL.
